

MIS200: Management Information Systems

This course will provide fundamentals of how information and communication technology can be used and utilized in the context of Management and business problem solutions.

Credit Hours: 3