

AJP400: Advanced Java Programming

The advanced course in Java programming will focus on advanced features. Topics will include Object-Oriented Analysis and Design, automatic documentation generation using JAVADOC, Graphical User Interface development, database programming using Java Database Connectivity, network programming using sockets and Remote Method Invocation, N-tier programming using Common Request Broker Architecture, object serialization and remote objects, and collections.

Credit Hours: 3